

Gather all the fragments

The goal of Christian life becomes not enlightenment but wholeness- an acceptance of this complicated and muddled bundle of experiences as a possible theatre for God's creative work.

Rowan Williams

Just to know that this is the place for "God's creative work" is a good place to begin. Have you any sense - however far from God you may seem, however "messed" up or confused - that here is tailor-made for God?

To notice –
and this usually takes courage, time and work – that even our imperfections or mistakes need to be embraced – for with God nothing is wasted.
Can you name feelings,
or a part of yourself,
which you ignore or reject?

Philip Carter is a retired Anglican Priest. He was the inaugural president of the Australian Ecumenical Council for Spiritual Direction (AECSD). He ran the Julian Centre in Adelaide, an independent and ecumenical centre for spirituality, from 1997-2009.

Contact: juliancentre@gmail.com